It's #FelineHypertensionMonth which is why we're spreading awareness of how important it is to know the signs of high blood pressure in your cat 🐱

Quite often, cats will show no noticeable signs of having high blood pressure. Subtle changes in behaviours can be a crucial indicator that something isn't quite right! Blood pressure checks are the best way to diagnose and screen for feline hypertension.

Be sure to book regular checks for your cat. #CatBloodPressure #FHAM

Prevention is better than cure! 🐱

Untreated high blood pressure in cats can lead to serious and irreversible damage to the heart, brain, kidneys and eyes, resulting in blindness in some cases.

By being proactive and booking your cat in for regular blood pressure checks, they could be avoiding the potentially life-threatening consequences of feline hypertension.
